Lead Dispencer Wins SASS World Championship Using Ten-X Ammunition

First Cowboy Action Shooting Champion To Win With Factory Ammo

MONTCLAIR, CA — July 24, 2006 — The 2006 SASS World Champions were crowned at the 25th Annual END of TRAIL World Championship of Cowboy Action Shooting held at Founders Ranch in Edgewood, New Mexico June 16-22, 2006. Continuing to dominate the sport as overall winners were Top Gun young adults Lead Dispencer, SASS # 27115 and Holy Terror, SASS #15362. 2004 World Champion Lead Dispencer (a.k.a., Spencer Hoglund) won back his title of Top Gun Male title by beating a field of the game's most talented competitors, and he did it with factory ammunition.

“We are very proud of Spencer and what he has accomplished,” said Richard Pumerantz, owner of Ten-X Ammunition. “He had the vision to understand the value in winning a championship with our factory ammunition. When you win with ‘off-the-shelf’ ammo you have proven to the shooting world that you are the best. It also proves the quality and reliability of Ten-X Ammunition. Now anyone can shoot the same ammo that Lead Dispencer shoots.”

Factory Ammo and Champion Now In The Same Sentence

It has been standard procedure for top shooters to load their own cartridges, because there hadn't been any factory ammunition with loads as light as champions would like them. This is no longer the case. Ten-X Ammunition has worked Lead Dispencer and other top shooters, like Sweetwater (Lady Modern 2006 National Champion) and Half-A-Hand Henri (Lady Gunfighter 2006 National Champion) to dial in the optimal load that would suit a champion's style.

The sport of cowboy action shooting has come to the point of encouraging ammunition manufacturers to develop cartridges that are truly capable of winning championships. The firearms manufacturers have had the benefit of local gunsmiths to tune the fine tools of the shooter's trade. The ammunition companies are finished when the box leaves the plant. The competitive nature of the sport and its top shooters have called upon companies like Ten-X Ammunition to build the cartridges that they can win championships with.

There will always be reloading for the fun and enjoyment of reloading, but it is no longer required to get a competitive edge.
